Delightful picture book with a surprise ending.

Ben dreams of becoming a real cowboy one day. But first, he has to master lasso-throwing and it's just not working out. Only yesterday he lassoed the Sheriff's wife's summer hat off her head and there was also a mishap with mama's clean laundry... Luckily, before he can be punished, Aunt Nelly sends him off to bring the cowboys their lunch. They show him how to throw lassoes again. Very soon, Ben's lasso-skills are being put to the test – and by none other than the feared bandit Red John!

Creative People:

Author: Ulrike Fischer was born in 1962 on a Westphalian farm in Germany, where she grew up within an extended family. Ever since she was given her first fountain pen, stories have simply kept flowing out of it. She has published various children's books and lives in a hillside village in Münster together with her husband, child and dog.

Illustrator: Stefanie Jeschke studied visual communications at the Bauhaus University in Weimar. Since 2012 she works as a freelance illustrator and paints, draws, and invents cowboys, monster, robbers, tooth spaces and whatever else is needed in children's books.
