A story about overcoming jealousy and coming to terms with the role of being an older sibling.

Poor Ida! Her parents have brought home a whiffet. And this whiffet spits. Has an ugly bald head. And roars day and night. In short: the whiffet has made itself a comfortable nest in Ida's home and now everything revolves around this new family member. But then Ida realises that even a whiffet has its uses: it's perfect for pinning the blame on. A mud party in the kitchen? It was the whiffet! Water colours on the walls? Only a whiffet could come up with something like that. It's her parents' own fault for getting a whiffet, isn't it? Or is a whiffet not such a bad thing after all?

Creative People:

Author: Uticha Marmon, born in 1979, studied dramaturgy, literary studies and education science in Mainz, Vienna and Munich. After being a dramatic advisor in theatres, she worked as an editor and producer for an audio book publisher for several years. Since 2010 she has been a freelance author and editor with emphasis on children's media. She lives in Hamburg.

Illustrator: Anne-Kathrin Behl, born in 1983, is the daughter of a bookseller and a forester. Therefore, it does not come as a surprise that she studied illustration at the HAW in Hamburg and loves to draw animals. She lives with her family in Celle.
