A lively fantastical story about open-mindedness and nature awareness with a herbal lexicon.

Gnome girl Imme lives in a gnome village deep in the Forest of a Hundred Roots. When she's not playing with her friends, she assists her uncle at his hospital or helps out at her mother's apothecary. One day, a letter arrives that throws the village into turmoil: it's an invitation from the new elf king – and Imme will be part of the gnome delegation! For the first time in her life, she's going to see elves! However, soon after arriving at the elf city, something seems off. What's the scheming elf general up to? Will Imme and the elf boy Laurin be able to thwart his evil plans?

Series will be continued in Autumn 2021

Creative People:

Author: Anna Taube worked as an editor for various children's book publishers for several years before becoming a freelance author and translator. She lives with her family in the idyllic Bad Rodach.

Illustrator: Marie Braner studied illustration in Münster and has been drawing children's books ever since. In her spare time, she roams through nature with her dog Momo and looks for inspiration for adventure stories and fantastical tales. At home, she puts them on paper, preferably accompanied by coffee, biscuits, and a good audio book.
