Lively fantastical stories about open-mindedness, friendship, and nature awareness with plant lexicons.

It's summer and gnome girl Imme can't wait for elf boy Laurin and the other elf and troll children to visit. They have hardly arrived, though, when a fire breaks out in the dry forest. When Imme realises family Mouse is in danger, Imme and Laurin set out to help them – even if that means putting themselves in danger as well ...

Creative People:

Author: Anna Taube worked as an editor for various children's book publishers for several years before becoming a freelance author and translator. She lives with her family in the idyllic Bad Rodach.

Illustrator: Marie Braner studied illustration in Münster and has been drawing children's books ever since. In her spare time, she roams through nature with her dog Momo and looks for inspiration for adventure stories and fantastical tales. At home, she puts them on paper, preferably accompanied by coffee, biscuits, and a good audio book.
