This colourfully illustrated non-fiction picture book raises awareness for the importance of species and environment protection.

Deep on the icy plains of the Arctic lives the little polar bear. There's always so much to learn and discover: How to find food, hide from dangerous animals, and communicate with his family. Fortunately, his family is always there to guide this little one to grow up safely and help him find his place in this world.

Creative People:

Author: Kristina Scharmacher-Schreiber studied German in Münster and Bergamo and afterwards worked for big opera houses for many years. Since 2016, she has been working as an author and translator and has published a number of children's books. For her nonfiction works, she has received a number of awards. When she's not working on a new book, she enjoys spending her time at her favourite place, a small island amidst the rough North Sea.

Illustrator: Christine Faust studied toy and teaching aids design and should therefore design toys. However, she loves drawing even more, which is why she illustrates children's books and games and also works in the animation industry for film and television. Christine Faust lives in Magdeburg where she likes to send her children on Easter egg hunts.
